SEVERAL HOSPITALS RECEIVE GENEROUS AID FROM MRS. NEEL

Former Monongahela Woman Gives Outright to Institutions by Will

MEMORIAL WILL GET $9,500

Monongahela and McKeesport Places Well Remembered—Charles Neel, of Monongahela, a Son Will Control Large Estate During His Life.

Generous bequests to the Memorial hospital of Monongahela and other institutions were made by Mrs. Nancy Neel, who died last Wednesday at Brookville, and whose will has just been probated and the contents made public. She was the widow of the late James Neel, formerly of Neel Foster, Blythe and company, a lumber firm of Monongahela. After her bequests to various institutions, Mrs. Neel directs that her son Charles Neel, of Monongahela receive the remainder of her fortune and estate to be used until his death, when the money is to be turned over to the Children's Aid society, of Allegheny county, the Presbyterian hospital and the Passavant hospital, in Pittsburg.

The sum of $1,500 is given to the Memorial hospital, at Monongahela, $1,500 to the Methodist Episcopal church, and $300 to the African Methodist Episcopal church of the same city. Mrs. Neel at the time of her death was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church at Monongahela, though since the death of her husband she has been living in Brookville, where she died.

The McKeesport hospital is given $9,500. Her hospital bequests total up at the present to about $25,000. The unusual feature of the will is the disposition of the money given to her son after his death. He will receive it is stated about $50,000.

Among other things, Mrs. Neel donates in her will $9,000 for the establishment of a hospital at Brookville, and designates that upon the death of her son, part of the sum that then will be made available for certain institutions be given to the proposed Brookville hospital.

At the time of her death Mrs. Neel was 82 years old. She was well known woman in the Monongahela valley, having lived in Monongahela for many years.

Fayette County Judge Has Little to Say Concerning Proposed Probe

ADMITS LEGISLATIVE ACTION

Emphatically stating that he will not resign before 1917, the time agreed upon by Judge Robert E. Umbel of Fayette county and Attorney H. S. Dumbauld of Uniontown, in a deal just announced, Judge Umbel has declined to comment upon the new turn of affairs in the impeachment situation. He was told that Representative Stern of Philadelphia had said he will file charges against Judge Umbel in the house next Monday night. He said that he would give out a statement later. He conferred with his colleagues and finally gave out the following statement:

"Since stating that I would give out a statement, I have considered the matter and for the present have concluded to say only that I appreciate the courtesy, but in view of the threat to make the Fayette county situation the subject of further legislative investigation and to avoid any misconstruction which might be placed on what I would now say I have decided to make no statement until the legislature indicates its intention, adding that I will not resign before 1917 and I confidently believe that in view of the fact that my resignation at that time will avoid one judicial contest, my agreement to do so has practically the unanimous endorsement of the people of this judicial district."

Attorney Dumbauld stated that he knew nothing of the proposed legislative probe which he has agreed to drop. Reports from Harrisburg stated that Representative Stern was in communcation with a Uniontown man. There is no one connected with politics who will admit even knowing Stern.

THE CAT IS OUT OF THE BAG.

We've scented an interesting story ever since the "Great Chance" cards have been circulated around town and now the surprise is out.

Claybaugh and Milliken, our enterprising merchants announce a sale which will be a "Great Chance" for you to save $$$$$. We certainly were astonished to learn this, although we might have known that this clever idea was the work of those alert merchants on account of the signs of extraordinary activity around their store.

Yesterday, we waylaid Mr. Milliken. "You bet we are going to have some sale" he said. "We've lots of surplus stock which we are going to sell at prices which will make many friends for this store."

It's a positive pleasure to see such enthusiasm. We are sure that Claybaugh and Milliken will succeed as well in this sale as they have in their other ventures. 212-tip

MALTAS TO ATTEND SERVICE

Big Delegation From Charleroi and Community to Be Present Sunday Afternoon—Washington Delegation Coming Tonight.

The power of conscience was discussed by the evangelist at the Fifth street tabernacle before a good sized audience Thursday night under the sermon theme of "Conscience." Pointed thrusts were made by the evangelist, who said the only way to clean up a guilty conscience is to surrender to Jesus Christ.

Announcement was made at the Thursday meeting of the service of Sunday afternoon. This will be particularly Malta afternoon, a delegation of Knights of Malta from Charleroi, Monessen and other points to attend the service in the body. With them will come the Dames of Malta. In the party will be several hundred, according to announcement. However the meeting will be for all.

The opening service Thursday night was especially interesting. It was conducted as usual by Leader G. P. Rockwell. Special choir music was rendered and the evangelistic quartet sang one song. Rev. A. J. Whipkey of the First Presbyterian church and Rev. W. G. Carl of the Baptist churches offered prayers.

The business men's prayer meeting this morning was held at the office of Henry Sheets, which is a central gathering place. Prayer meetings held elsewhere this morning were generally well attended.

No prayer meetings will be held tomorrow morning, save one at a business house down town. The place for this meeting will be announced later.

At this evening's meeting it is expected that a delegation from Washington, Pa., will be present. A section will be reserved for them.

Conscience.

Evangelist Minges took his subject Thursday night from the beheading of John the Baptist and from it preached a vigorous sermon, full of thrusts at the sins of today, and on the power of conscience. He said that "Mrs. Herod" occupied the same position as the society woman of today and in this connection scored society. He gave a vivid picture of the dance of the time of Herod in terms of the present day and passed from this to the historic dance of Herodias. He told of Herod's weakness in yielding and beheading John and he showed that it was the power of conscience that caused him to believe that Chirst was John raised from the dead. He said, "there are too many preachers who have no backbone and will not take a stand on anything. I praise God for a man of principle.

Herod's conscience made him tremble. After the murder of his mother, Herod could not sleep. Lady Macbeth wailed in agony because she could not wash the blood stains from her hands. Neither can the stains be washed away from the conscience. It is the one thing from which one

THE EXODUS TO EUROPE.

While it has been understood generally that, as a consequence of the war and the interruption of transatlantic travel, immigration to this country had declined to but a fraction of its former total, it will be surprising news to learn that actually more persons are leaving the United States for Europe than are coming here. For the first time in our history we have more emigrants than immigrants, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.

The change in the tide came in December, when the emigrant aliens outnumbered by 2,240 the immigrants entering. In January 1,757 more departed than arrived. For the six months, dating from the beginning of the war in August to January, the emigrants totaled 18,545 more than the immigrants.

Of course this reversal of the flow of travel was due chiefly to the return of European reservists in obedience to the call to the colors. An illustration of this is found in the fact that the heaviest emigration was among aliens from Southern Italy. Of these 76,629 more emigrated than were admitted during the seven months ending with January. The preponderance of Italian reservists returning home is, of course explained by the fact that there were no obstacles in the way of their transportion, Italy being yet neutral and also by the larger immigration of Italians in recent years.

MISDIRECTED PERSEVERANCE.

Every old maxim is not exactly to be worshiped as a sacred cow among unvarying rules of conduct. The virtue of perseverance for instance, has been much extolled. Various sayings in its behalf adorned copybooks, serving some usefulness, at least, in the practice of penmanship. A larger measure of benefit would attend exhortations to beware of misdirected perseverance, says an exchange.

There is in law the rule that a jury shall not convict when the case against the defendant is open to doubt. Instances recur in which persistent attempts to prove monopoly in restraint of trade are prolonged after defeat in the first court. Heedless of the existence of anything even remotely resembling doubt and oblivious to the legal principle, which in common justice entitled defendant to acquital when guilt is not conclusively shown, the overly persistent prosecution continues with costly appeals to other courts.

Shakespeare lists perseverance among "king-becoming graces" and he could have profitably included in his observation that misdirected perseverance is wasted energy in particular.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A young attorney who recently opened up a law office at Washington sent out cards announcing that he was in business for himself. Several young women were included in the list of those who received cards, and some time afterward at a party one young woman exclaimed:

"Oh, girls, did any of you get Mr. ——'s announcement."

"No, we didn't know he was engaged," came the astounding answer. Then explanations had to be made.

"That was a hard looking customer we just passed," said a traveler to an Irishman of his acquaintance as they walked along the street one day.

"Faith, sorr, an' he's as bad as he looks," was Pat's reply. "He done 15 years fo' havin' his wife without visible manes of support."

"Shure, an' can't he, sorr," said Pat with a roguish twinkle in his eyes. "He did, though. An' begad! isn't havin' your wife without visible manes of support when ye threw her out of a window in the third floor?"

WILL GIVE BENEFIT FOR NON-COMBATANT SUFFERERS

"Passion Play" to be Presented Sunday, March 28 at Turner Hall For People in Poland.

As a benefit for the non-combatant sufferers in Poland, the "Passion Play" will be presented at the Turner Hall Sunday, March 28. The play will be presented under the chairmanship of Rev. Matthew Kebe of the local Slavok church.

From war correspondents at Warsaw, Poland is suffering more than any of the warring nations of Europe. The area of over 100,000 square kilometers is in ruins. Fifteen thousand villages and cities have been burned in Russian Poland alone. Over 400,000 women and children are perishing from cold and starvation.

Luke McLuke Says:

Any married man can tell you that life is full of contradictions.

When a woman sues for a divorce it takes her four hours to tell her attorney how ornery her husband is. And the attorney, having some sense, covers the whole works with the one word "incompatibility."

When an adult is ill the doctor has to ask a lot of questions before he can locate the trouble. But when a boy is ill the doctor merely asks what the boy has been eating.

When she is seventeen she wouldn't let a man touch the hem of her skirt. When she is twenty-seven she would almost clean a man's shoes to cop out a husband.

There would be more courtesy shown in this world were it not for the fact that when you try to extend a kindness to strangers they always act as though you were trying to steal something from them.

The woman who lets her husband have his own way every now and then always has a pretty good husband and never pays much money to divorce lawyers.

An office seeker is never short in his accounts when he is on the stump But he is sometimes that way after he is elected.

Every time a girl takes a peek at the solitaire in her engagement ring she realizes that there are sermons in stones.

In a family argument the man has the logic, but the woman has the tears. And give us a ticket on the tears every time.

The fact that you look down on other people isn't going to make them look up to you.

There are all sorts of people in the world, including the man who sheds tears when the burlesque queen, attired in a pair of pink tights and some mosquito netting, leaves her pet poodle whining in her dressing room and comes out and sings "A Mother Is the Truest Friend on Earth."

The old fashioned ten-year-old boy who used to carry water to the elephants to get standing room on a scantling and see the circus now has a ten-year-old son who gets highly indignant if his father doesn't kick in with a dollar and get him a reserved seat.

Some of the clubwomen who do the most lecturing on how to make our cities cleaner are wasting a lot of time that could be used to good advantage in making their homes cleaner.

If a woman ever did succeed in making herself just like one of the pictures in a fashion magazine every horse in town would run away if she went out on the street.

The man who tells children that there ain't no Santa Claus has a brother who tells his kids that the parade is all there is to a circus.

We have just received a pamphlet on "How to Care For a Typewriter." If we had one we would see that she got lots of candy and chewing gum.

can never escape. He told how conscience can turn men from wrong living and make them come back to God; how Dives could not escape the torment of his conscience and wished to send Lazarus back to warn his brothers who were following in his path. Won't it be a pleasant thing for a man to live a sinful, and devilish life in this world and then look back from eternity and see that his influence, all for the bad, lives on. What kind of a life will the man who is following you lead? Ethan Allen said to his daughter as he was dying, follow your mother's God for there is nothing in my philosophy.

After a number of other instances of the power of an awakened conscience, the evangelist concluded, you can't cover up your sin. The only way to clean up a guilty conscience is to surrender to Jesus Christ.

It Strengthens the Public's Hand

Here, briefly, is the bill just introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature which by repealing the Full Crew Law gives the public greater power in its place:

"The Public Service Commission . . . shall have power . . . to require any railroad corporation . . . to employ a sufficient and adequate number of men upon any of its trains."

The railroads urge the repeal of the Full Crew Law because it is right that this inequitable law compelling the railroads to waste two million dollars a year in unearned wages should be off the statute books.

That the citizens of Pennsylvania, who directly or indirectly suffer from this tremendous waste, are back of the railroads in their fight is abundantly evident. Public sentiment, expressed in actions of boards of trade throughout the State, in countless petitions and in hundreds of thousands of letters urging the repeal of the Full Crew Law, has spoken and spoken emphatically.

But the railroads are not asking for the repeal of this law because they seek more power for themselves. The very act repealing the Full Crew Law places in the hands of the Public Service Commission, authorized guardian of the public, the trainmen and the railroads alike, the power properly to man trains.

By putting this control where it belongs, efficiency of operation is assured and the money now wasted in unearned wages can be spent for your better and safer service.

If this bill is passed you citizens of Pennsylvania will be relieved of the injurious effects of an unjust law and at the same time retain to an even greater degree your power of control over your servants, the railroads of your State.

Tell your Representatives at Harrisburg to work and vote for this amendment. It strengthens the Public's hand.

AERIAL TRAIL BREAKING.

It is impossible for one who has seen only the common mute swans floating about in the artificial lakes of city parks to imagine the grandeur of a flock of the great whistlers in their wild state. In "Wild Life and the Camera" Mr. A. R. Dugmore says the sight is one of the most impressive in nature. As the huge birds rise into the air it seems as if an aerial regatta were being sailed overhead, the swans, each with a wing spread of six or seven feet, moving like yachts under full sail.

Once the swans are fairly under way their speed is amazing, nearly a hundred miles an hour, and that, too, with no apparent effort, for the slow wing motion is very deceiving. Their endurance is as surprising as their speed, for they are said to travel a thousand miles without alighting.

The flocks are usually led by an old and experienced swan, and it is said that as one becomes tired of leading, or it might be called aerial trail breaking, his place is taken by another whose strength is equal to the task, and so they continue until they reach their destination, the southern feeding grounds of the winter or the northern breeding places of the summer. Occasionally they stop to rest in the region of the great lakes. Not many years ago, while on their way north, a large number stopped above Niagara falls, and more than a hundred were by some extraordinary mischance carried over the falls and killed in the surging waters.

Whether the swans prepare in any special way for their southward journey is not known, but before starting north they indulge in the curious habit known as "ballasting"—that is to say, they eat great quantities of sand, for what purpose no one knows.

In the fairway Arctic ocean is their breeding place, and it is believed that they mate for life. As with so many of the water birds, the swans protect their eggs with a covering of down scratched from their own breasts, so that when the birds leave the nest the two to six large, yellowish eggs are hidden from the eyes of possible thieves and protected against any sudden changes of temperature.

It is many years before the swans are clothed in the feathers of immaculate whiteness that make them such conspicuous objects of beauty. Not indeed, until the fifth year does all trace of gray disappear. Their first feathers are entirely gray. Gradually they lighten, becoming mottled with white, the neck and head remaining gray until after the body is completely white.

What Shell Fire Is Like.

I have read many attempts to describe shell fire in a battle, but not one to equal the easy description of this young officer, who does not pretend to be a stylist. Listen:

"You hear a boom miles away, hardly audible in the distance. Then a faint sigh, gradually rising to a scream as the shell whizzes toward you. Then a flash, an immense crash, and the air is filled with thousands of bullets and jagged lumps of iron, each making a different sort of shrieking noise. Then phit-phit-phit everywhere as they hit the ground.

"This is shrapnel."—London Sketch.

A Regular Gadder.

A lady bought some furniture at an auction sale in Glasgow the other day. On paying the porter she remarked:

"Had I known how dirty that furniture was I would not have bought it."

"Weel, ma'am," replied the porter, "it wis the dirtiest hoose I ever saw; but, there, whit cud ye expect—the mistress wis only at hame ance every Tuesday. Ah ken it fer a fac', 'cause I read it on a caird I got in that drawer there."—Glasgow News.

The Sick Man of the East.

The phrase "the sick man of the east" originated in a speech of Czar Nicholas to the British charge d'affaires at St. Petersburg at the time of the Crimean war. He said: "We have on our hands a sick man, a very sick man. It would be a great misfortune if one of these days he should slip away from us before the necessary arrangements have been made."—Argonaut.

Perfect Happiness.

Grubbs—What is your idea of perfect happiness? Stubbs—Well, if my wife would stop telling me what she thinks of me, and I had the privilege of telling my respected employer what I think of him it would seem about right.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Man and the Machine.

"How many votes did you get?"

"Not nearly as many as the other fellow," said the man who is always philosophical. "You see, I had to depend entirely on my own efforts for my votes. His were machine made."—Washington Star.

Consistent.

Brown—Why is your daughter going to talk against the permanence of a republic in that college debate? Smith—Because she thought the advocacy of a republic would not go well with her new empire gown.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Perfectly Proper.

"I am afraid this company is doing business on an inflated capital."

"Yes, but then it deals in automobile tires."—Baltimore American.

5 Women Avoid Operations

For years we have been stating in the newspapers of the country that a great many women have escaped serious operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is true.

We are permitted to publish in this announcement extracts from the letters of five women. All have been recently received unsolicited. Could any evidence be more convincing?

1. Hopkins, Me.—"I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached and I was so nervous I could not sleep, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman."—Mrs. Hayward Sowers, Hodgdon, Me.

2. Shelbyville, Ky.—"I suffered from a severe female trouble. My right side hurt me badly—it was finally decided that I must be operated upon. When my husband learned this he got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking it a few days I got better and continued to improve until I am now well."—Mrs. Mollie Smith, R.F.D., Shelbyville, Ky.

3. Hanover, Pa.—"The doctor advised a severe operation, but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it."—Mrs. Ada Wilt, 303 Walnut St., Hanover, Pa.

4. Decatur, Ill.—"I was sick in bed and three of the best physicians said I would have to be taken to the hospital for an operation as I had something growing in my left side. I refused to submit to the operation and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and it worked a miracle in my case, and I tell other women what it has done for me."—Mrs. Laura A. Griswold, 2497 East William Street, Decatur, Ill.

5. Cleveland, Ohio.—"I was very irregular and for several years my side pained me so that I expected to have to undergo an operation. Doctors said they knew of nothing that would help me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I became regular and free from pain. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. Griffith, 1508 Constant St., Cleveland, O.

LEGISLATOR LOSES CHECK

Lost in Careless Opening of Full Crew Law Repeal Mail.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 11.

The deluge of public opinion which is swamping the desks of senators and representatives is making it difficult for some to keep up with their private business affairs. About the State Capitol a great deal of fun is being poked at one prominent member of the House, who in his hurry to get through the mail from his constituents inadvertently put into the waste basket an unopened letter containing a rent check.

He only discovered the sad mistake when after two or three days he inquired of the tenant as to where the March rent payment was, and was informed that check had been sent in due course. It is noticeable that this particular member is now very careful in going through his mail.

One senator from the western part of the state says that he has two thousand letters and other communications, and that out of the latter only two were against repeal of the Full Crew Law. A Philadelphia member of the House reports that when he went home last Sunday he found there about 1500 letters which had been sent to his home address by constituents who wanted to make certain of reaching him.

The oldest men around the State Capitol say that never in their recollection has any question which has come before the legislature brought such a tremendous expression of public opinion as that which has been manifested in the most concrete way with respect to the Full Crew Law. While it is true that some members feel nettled at the mass of correspondence which has come upon them, there is none who will publicly say that he has not been impressed by such expression and the unanimity with which it favors repeal of the law which has worked so manifestly to public disadvantage.

GRAND—PITTSBURG.

There is the snap and go of musical comedy about the list of vaudeville attractions engaged by Mr. Davis for engaged by Mr. Davis for presentation in the Grand Opera House during the week beginning Monday afternoon, March 15. "On the School Playgrounds" is to be presented by a company of ten versatile juveniles, including L. Brendel and Muriel Morgan. It is a little comic music play in which the revelry of youth is expressed by this half a score of merry boys and girls who have not yet forgotten the fun and mischief of their own school days. Two stars of grand opera, Juan Cardo and Fritzi Noll, are to render a group of songs from the classics and semi-classics. They were lately stars of Oscar Hammerstein's company, "Naughty Marietta," Miss Noll creating the titular part and Mr. Cardo, who is an excellent Italian tenor, succeeding Orville Harrold in the leading male role. An artistic modern love episode called "A Lady, a Lover and a Lamp" is to be played by two well known London Society entertainers, William Burt and Daphne Hope. Charlie Howard and company, with Bobby Watson and Dorothy Hayden, will offer what they are pleased to call "A Happy Combination." Albert F. Hawthorne and Jack Inglis, "from Brazil, where the nuts come from," will play a little farce entitled "A Fool there Is." Exciting triple horizontal bar exploits will be performed by two pretty young women known as the Loretta twins. Robbins, the queer musician, is to imitate musical instruments of every sort, consititating himself a one-man band. In costumes of Roman Gladiators and, with setting appropriate to the period when man and beast fought in the arena, two men will give an exhibition of physical strength representing the sports of olden times. George M. Brown and company will play a little sketch that is described as a real novelty, and besides, there will be some moving pictures of universal interest.

AMONG THE THEATRES

LYRIC—CHARLEROI

With all the scenes laid in the west, and with the most engrossing kind of a story the basis of a narrative, one of the features of the week at the Lyric theatre was "Chip of Flying U." The drama was filmed from the popular western story of the same name by B. M. Bowers. A Wednesday feature was "Sergeant Warren's Ward", which was a two-reel Essanay telling a story of heart interest. A three-reel Broadway star feature was shown on Thursday in the film, "How Sissy Made Good." Splendid acting and excellent effects were obtained in this rather unusual film. Manager Penman is planning big features to follow, and among them will be two pictures to be presented on Saturday. They are: "Tragedy of Bear Mountain," two parts, and "Shanghai Baby", a three-reel Lubin drama.

PALACE—CHARLEROI.

An excellent program of pictures and vaudeville was presented at the Palace theatre this week. Monday the attraction was five act Alliance feature, "The Martin Mystery." On Wednesday an exceptionally meritorious Schubert picture was shown. Alice Brady was featured in "As Ye Sow,, as a young wife who had as a husband a ne'er-do-well; who disappears and is assumed to be dead. The lost man's brother, a clergyman falls in love with the supposed widow. But the dead man comes to life and the sufferings of the young wife are continued. However in the end he reaps as he has sown dying as the result of a quarrel. The vaudeville numbers were: Billy Jones, a comedian, Dauler and Cowan and the Zudans. The later part of the week Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne were starred in "Thirteen Down." The Schubert attraction for next Wednesday will be "The Man of the Hour."

COYLE—CHARLEROI

Exceptionally good were all the features at the Coyle theatre this week. On Tuesday the Paramount attraction was "The Morals of Marcus." The scenes of this play were laid in Turkey and London. Marie Doro who was featured in this production instantly won favor. Her ability as an actress was wonderfully displayed. Thursday Edith Taliaferro was featured in "Young Romance." This was an interesting story of a clerk who saved one hundred dollars and spent it for a week of gloriousness at a summer resort. A young man who was a clerk in the same store attracted by stories decided to do the same thing. The young people met b ut an understanding was impossible because they both were unwilling to confess that they were not what they seemed. They returned to the city, where they again met and amid rightful surroundings things were explained. Announcement is being made of "The Goose Girl" which will be the attraction next Tuesday. Marguerite Clark will be starred in this picture.

STAR—CHARLEROI

The story of a runaway boy who landed in Australia and who started a life of crime there, to follow it up for years until finally he was brought to his senses, and reformed, was told in "Captain Swift," a five-reel picture at the Star Theatre on Wednesday. This was one of the week's big features. On Thursday one of the featuring attractions was Vivian Rush in the two-reel American film, "In the Twilight," and another was a two-reel Bison, "Perils of the Wild." "Conductor 786" was another good picture of Thursday. The life Photo Film corporation is sending numerous features to the Star now that are among the best pictures produced anywhere. On Saturday Manager Crandall will present "The Ordeal" a five-part picture. He is getting some of the finest films in the first-run service on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

ALVIN—PITTSBURG.

Manager A. H. Woods will present at the Alvin theatre March ... Pauline Frederick in the sensational success of the season, "Innocent," a brilliant play by George Broadhurst, from the Hungarian of Arpad Paszter, which comes here direct from a run of over six months at the Eltinge Theatre, New York. It is interesting to know that Miss Frederick was seen last year as Zuleika in "Joseph and His Brethren." Miss Frederick comes here with the same supporting company that lent so much to the success of the long Metropolitan engagement. "Innocent" is in prologue four acts and epilogue and the scenes are laid in Mukden, Manchuria in Budapest and in Nice. "Innocent" is the daughter of an old roue, who has brought her up in absolute ignorance of the world and on his death, leaves her to the care of his old friend, a younger man, who tries hard to fulfill his promise to the father. From the moment of her departure from her cloistered home in Mukden, her life is filled with thrilling surprises. She is born to conquer and under the spell of her charm men fall at her feet. From the rise of the first curtain the action of the play moves with cyclonic rapidity on to the surprising climax.

In the brilliant supporting company Mr. Woods sends such splendid artists as John Miltern, Julian l'Estrange, George Probert, Kenneth Hunter, Hardee Kirkland, Frank Kemble Cooper and others.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them. Fresh air, regular habits and good food aid in restoring health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Eckman's Alterative. ...

"Gentlemen:—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found). In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated).

The Time to Break It.

There is an anecdote in some volume of French theatrical memoirs narrating an experience of Mlle. Clairon, the great tragic actress, with a pupil of hers, a girl of strong natural gifts for the histrionic art, but far too frequent and too exuberant in her gesticulation. So when the pupil was once to appear before the public in a recitation Mlle. Clairon bound the girl's arms to her side by a stout thread and sent her thus upon the stage.

With the first strong feeling she had to express the pupil tried to raise her arms only to be restrained by the thread. A dozen times in the course of her recitation she was prevented from making the gestures she desired but at the very end she could stand it no longer, and in the climax of her emotion she broke her bonds and swung her hands to her head.

When she came off the stage she went humbly to where Mlle. Clairon was standing in the wings and apologized for having snapped the thread.

"But you did quite right," said the teacher. "That was the time to make the gesture, not before."

When Earthquakes Come.

That animals are sensitive to the approach of earthquakes is a fact frequently observed and the more recent seismic troubles in various countries give numerous examples of this singular faculty which many animals possess. For instance, in Japan horses set up an unusual agitation whenever a seismic shock is near at hand. In Central America dogs and cats flee from houses, and the inhabitants have become so accustomed to this that they follow the example of the animals and leave their dwellings so as to escape danger.

In Italy it has been observed that birds left their nests and flew up to a great height in the air, but this without noise before the earthquake took place. However, at the time when the earthquake shocks were produced the birds uttered cries which lasted for all the duration of the earthquake.

It is asserted that in Sicily cocks crow and dogs howl just before an earthquake.—Chicago News.

Power of the Supreme Court.

"The supreme court of the United States," writes Christian Bonnet in Case and Comment, "exercises a power which we think is unique in the world, to pass upon the constitutionality of the statutes enacted by congress. It may thus suspend the execution of the resolutions lawfully adopted by both houses.

"The French courts have the right to interpret the law. They cannot refuse to do so under pretext that the law is not clear or that it is silent or insufficient. By so doing the judge becomes guilty of a misdemeanor called 'denial of justice,' and he is punished by a fine and deprived of all civil rights for a period varying from five to twenty years. But no court in France, not even the court of cassation, has the power to decide whether a law passed by congress is unconstitutional or not."

Two Kettles of Water.

Sir Robert Hart, speaking of marriage and death customs in the far east, told a story of a great Chinese scholar and high official who said that the foreign way of letting the young people fall in love and choose and the Chinese way of first marrying and then making acquaintance reminded him of two kettles of water. The first—the foreign—was taken at the boiling point from the fire by marriage and then grew cooler and cooler, whereas the second—the Chinese—was a kettle of cold water put on the fire by wedlock and ever afterward growing warmer and warmer. "So that," said his friend, "after fifty or sixty years we are madly in love with each other."—Exchange.

Why He Was Careful.

A man who believed in pedestrianism coaxed a friend to accompany him on a little jaunt. Every time they crossed the road his friend looked first one way and then the other and refused to budge if there chanced to be a motorcar in sight.

"It's all well enough to be careful," said the pedestrian, "but you seem to have let automobiles get on your nerves."

"I've good reason to be careful," answered his friend. "The insurance policy I carry is void if I get run over by one."—Judge.

The River Indus.

The River Indus in width during the year may vary by miles. Traffic for long distances cannot be guaranteed because the ever shifting channel throws up mud flats and sand banks here and overwhelms good land there in a manner which defeats the wisdom of the ablest boatmen.

Gastronomic Health.

"Pa, what is envy?"

"Envy, my boy, is what your millionaire uncle feels every time he hears you beggins your mother for a second piece of pie."—Detroit Free Press.

The Object.

"Why do you write articles on how cheaply people can live if they try?"

"In the hope of getting enough money to avoid having to live that way."—Washington Star.

Romans and Beards.

No weather is ill if the wind be still.—Spanish Proverb.

A Pretty Compliment.

The "three beautiful Miss Gunnings" were in their day—which was after the middle of the eighteenth century—such famous beauties that the London crowd often followed their carriages on the street and fairly mobbed any shop they were known to have entered in the effort to get a sight of them. The handsomest of the trio, worn out by the festivities of the London season, stayed for a time in the country near a market town. It was known in the neighborhood that she wished to pass unnoticed and was not well, and her wish was respected. But on the day of her departure from the town there was an unusual number of people at hand to see the coach start. As the lively lady stepped from the inn door to the step of the coach the branch of a climbing rose caught for a moment in her hair. Instantly a voice called from the crowd:

"No names, my lads, and no staring, but three cheers for the queen of beauty that the roses crowns of themselves!"

They were given with a will and won the response of a radiant face at the coach window and a gracious hand waving farewell.

Eggs Hatched In Rice.

John Chinaman had a method of hatching eggs artificially many generations before there were any white men in America to begin to think about providing a mechanical substitute for the mother hen. And John Chinaman is still using his ancient method and refuses to purchase the newfangled incubator. The Chinese poulteryman takes a quantity of unhusked rice which he has roasted. This is heated until it is lukewarm. A three inch layer of warm rice is spread into a tub, and a layer of eggs is placed thereon. Another layer of rice is added and another layer of eggs and finally a last layer of rice over the fifth layer of eggs. About 500 eggs are placed in a tub. Once each day the eggs are removed, the rice heated and the whole repacked. The tub is kept well covered to keep in the heat. In the course of three or four weeks the chicks put in their appearance.—American Boy.

How Napoleon Dressed.

Napoleon was always simple in his dress and generally wore the uniform of his own guard. He was cleanly rather from habit than from liking for cleanliness. He bathed often—sometimes in the middle of the night—because he thought the practice good for his health. But, apart from this, the precipitation with which he did everything did not admit of his clothes being put on carefully, and on gala days and full dress occasions his servants were obliged to consult together as to when they might snatch a moment to dress him.

He could not endure the wearing of ornaments. The slightest constraint was insupportable to him. He would tear off or break anything that gave him the least annoyance.—Memoirs of Mme. de Remusat.

Pepys and the Otacousticon.

As far back as 1665 experiments were being made with what savants called an "otacousticon," which brought distant sounds to the ear and was a faroff promise of the "long distance" and "wireless" messages of today. Samuel Pepys was abroad in those days, and, of course, he saw the new toy, tried it and mentions it in his diary. He went with Lord Brouncker to "the Royall society," and "there, to my great content, I did try the use of the otacousticon, which was only a great glass bottle broke at the bottom, putting the neck to my eare, and there I did plainly hear the dancing of the oares of the boats in the Thames to Arundel gallery window, which without it I could not in the least do."

Court Room Retort.

Two young attorneys were wrangling for a long time before Judge Knox of Virginia over a point of law. His honor rendered his decision, and the sprig who had lost impudently remarked, "Your honor, there is a growing opinion that all the fools are not dead yet." "Certainly," answered the court, with unruffled good humor; "I quite agree with you, Mr. B., and congratulate you upon your healthy appearance."

Badly Matched.

Mrs. Yeast—This paper says the matching of colors has been brought down to an exact science by the invention of a machine for the purpose.

Mr. Yeast—You ought to get the people who run the store where you buy your hair to get one of those machines, dear.—Yonkers Statesman.

Very Trying.

"Dear sir," wrote the anxious mother, "I am afraid Johnny is not trying enough."

"Dear madam," replied the harassed teacher, "I assure you that Johnny is quite trying enough. He is the most trying boy in the class."

Power of Beauty.

Beauty gets the best of it. Poets, humane organizations, sentimentalists, make a great to-do about the bird that dies to adorn a woman's hat. But who has any sympathy for the hen whose neck is wrung to make a potpie?—Don Marquis.

A Philippines Custom.

When a young woman of the Philippines marries her husband's name is added to her maiden name. If she becomes a widow the husband's name is discarded.

The man who was born with a talent which he is meant to use finds his greatest happiness in using it.—Goethe.
